Key to the City Awarded to Lynsi Snyder, Owner and Heiress of the In-N-Out Burger Company at Anniversary Parade, Saturday, November 3

BALDWIN PARK, Calif. (November 5, 2018) – On November 3, 2018, Residents, business owners and community members lined up Baldwin Park Boulevard for the City’s 62nd Anniversary Parade.

As part of the celebration the City of Baldwin Park, gave its first “Key to the City” award to Lynsi Snyder, owner and heiress of the In-N-Out Burger company.

“Lynsi was moved by the gesture and was most appreciative of the award. Her legacy is what Baldwin Park is all about” said Mayor Manuel Lozano.

In-N-Out, the iconic burger chain was founded in the City of Baldwin Park back in 1948 by Harry and Esther Snyder. Since then the burger chain has embodied the spirit of Southern California and has been an active member of the business community in Baldwin Park.

“I was honored to accept this award from the City where my grandparents built their dreams. I am so touched by this award and it feels like a true homecoming” said Snyder.

The Key to the City ceremony took place at the Cesar Chavez Amphitheater at Morgan Park at 4100 Baldwin Park Boulevard , Baldwin Park, CA 91706 .
