Baldwin Park Applauds In-N-Out Burger Headquarters' Return to the City

BALDWIN PARK, CA – The City of Baldwin Park is excited to welcome In-N-Out Burger Headquarters back to its original home: our beloved City. We are honored that Lynsi Snyder, Owner and President of In-N-Out, has decided to return the company to where it all began in 1948 with her grandparents, Harry and Esther Snyder.

“Since its inception in 1948, Baldwin Park and In-N-Out Burger have been synonymous. Our community has always welcomed In-N-Out and the warm, family atmosphere it provides,” said Baldwin Park Mayor Alejandra Avila. “We are thrilled that their headquarters will return to our community and are confident that this partnership will provide significant economic and cultural benefits to our community.”

On Feb. 12, In-N-Out Burger announced plans to relocate its corporate headquarters to Baldwin Park from Irvine. In 1948, Harry and Esther Snyder opened the very first In-N-Out location in Baldwin Park, marking California’s first-ever drive-through hamburger stand. From those humble beginnings, the company has grown into a beloved institution with over 400 locations across eight states.

While In-N-Out has maintained corporate offices in Baldwin Park, the official headquarters have been in Irvine since 1994. By 2029, however, In-N-Out’s West Coast family will be reunited once again in Baldwin Park. In-N-Out’s return only reinforces the deep ties between our community and the iconic California restaurant chain, reflecting our shared history, pride and family.
